Product Profile

Provide additional services to your product like videos of how to assemble, contact support, etc.

By scanning the QR code, you can show an ad or display any additional information related to your product.

QR Code has become very popular in consumer marketing. It has now become a standard for many of the industries in promoting their business or products. These QR codes may appear in magazines, on hoarding signs, buses, business cards or almost any object about which users might want information.

Since, smartphones or tablets have built-in cameras and are smart enough to read the QR codes, we can leverage the same QR code to display the 3D models or videos of the products, navigate them to your personal websites, or provide contact information where users can know more details from the simple code.
